Then we have the Sewanee coal-mines, situated on the Tennessee rive; in Grundy county, some one hundred and twelve miles from this place, yielding inexhaustible quantities of a soft bitaminous coal, which burns with a clear blaze, and producing an intense heat. For purposes of generating steam this coal has no superior, and carloads of it daily leave the mines for St. Louis and other manufacturing cities.

This cetebrated Gin, of light draft, makes a good sumple, picks more lint from the same amount of seed cotton, and in less time, than any other gin. It does not break the roil nor choice, is simple in its construction, and not inside to get out of order.

It is a good role to try all things, and bold fast to what has been approved, and answers the purpose for which it is made. This is chaimed for PikaTi's Gin, and is admitted by practical planters who have tried it.
